VOL. VII PORTLAND, OREGON: MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1867. NO. 72.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, D C, March 20, 1867

The Fortieth Congress has remained in Washington much longer than I supposed it would when I wrote my last letter. The idea was then prevalent that a recess would be taken till the middle of May when a session of two months would be held. The House in its caucus resolved upon this course, but the Senate hung back—it was not ready to agree upon a time for adjournment. In the Senate caucus Wilson, of Massachusetts, made a shrewd remark. Said he: "Let us wait awhile. The House is now fierce for a summer session. Let us hold it here for a few weeks and it will gladly adjourn over till the autumn if not till December." Such is the state of the case now. The House is exceedingly anxious for the Senate to get ready for adjournment. The Senate is apparently at its ease and the sentiment in both Houses unquestionably preponderates greatly in favor of a recess extending to October, and possibly till the usual time, in December.

The Supplemental Reconstruction bill has been under consideration in both Houses and has been sent to the President. The debate in the Senate was instructive. Both the Oregon Senators participated slightly in it—Mr Corbett speaking but a few moments, but forcibly and with a good point. I confess that the conduct of certain Republican Senators in the course of the debate leads me to think that the statement of Senator Trumbull is correct. His statement, made when he was angry, was this: that a number of Republican Senators desired the defeat of the bill because under no circumstances do they desire to see the South represented in Congress for the present. It was a rough allegation, but it was not denied or resented by the gentlemen against whom it was aimed. The same charge might be made in the House. Butler, Ashley, and a few men of their kind do not desire the admission of the rebellious States till after the Presidential election. Perhaps they take the right course, but I think not. I need not tell you that neither of the Oregon Senators not with these extremists. They follow the dictates of a rugged common sense. Mr Mallory, the new member of the House, was sworn in on Friday, so that he has had very little chance to act upon current questions. He could and did vote for the Supplemental Reconstruction bill, however.

The House Judiciary Committee is pushing its investigations into the President's conduct very closely. It had Halpine of the New York Citizen before them a day or two since upon the published conversation between the President and Halpine on the national debt. I hear that Halpine substantiated the published report of the President's conversation. I agree with the Springfield Republican (Mass) that it is the worst thing for the President has yet done. He certainly openly suggests the hideous crime of repudiation to the millions of Copperheads and Rebels with whom the country swarms—North and South.

If Congress adjourns soon, as is now certain, the Judiciary Committee will proceed with the Impeachment investigation during the recess. They will go over the whole ground of evidence with the utmost thoroughness, and when Congress comes together again will be ready to report. Many sanguine Radicals expect a bill of impeachment as the result of this investigation, but I expect nothing of the sort. When Congress again meets I expect that the Committee will report that the President has done many unjustifiable things, but that they do not believe his actions of the Constitution were wilful and malicious, and therefore they do not second his impeachment. Of course I may be mistaken. But I do know that prominent members of the Judiciary Committee have privately informed Senators and some of their fellow members that nothing was discovered in the 39th Congress which would warrant the impeachment of the President. As a matter of course, much depends upon the conduct of the President during the coming summer. If he shall act in an ugly manner in the execution of the laws relative to reconstruction, he might be impeached and removed. If he shall prove himself a great obstruction to the welfare of the nation Congress might go to the verge of propriety in his removal, and the exigency might be such as to justify the action of Congress with the people. But the President now seems to be ready to execute the law. He has announced the District Commanders under it. He is going on quite as fast as Congress is with its execution—that is, he is waiting for Congress to enact the details, or has been until within a day or two. He tells his friends that he will execute the law thoroughly. Well if he will, he is safe. I have very good reasons for believing that considerable of the resignation to his future post on. Two or three Democrats who have recently had interviews with him say that he has never been more ugly since he deserted his friends and went over to the Copperheads. He would like to make open war upon Congress, but he dare not. To do so would be to risk his head, and Mr Johnson loves life as well as any man, though to read some of his speeches one might think he was anxious for the martyr's fate.

Since my last letter, Hulburd of New York who investigated the frauds in the New York Custom House has made a startling speech. He proved Smythe a great scoundrel, and after hearing him it was impossible to resist the conviction that Senators Patterson and Doolittle have had a dishonorable connection with Smythe. A son of Doolittle has a fat place in the New York Custom House at this moment, but that fact does not prove corruption. Doubtless many good men have sons there. But Smythe evidently had some secret connection with Patterson, so that he told an intimate friend that he could never refuse to attempt to take care of "a President's daughters." This was a reference to Patterson's wife. Let me say "right here" that nobody believes for one moment that the President's daughters have had the slightest knowledge of the villainy going on in New York. They were used by somebody here—that is to say, Patterson or somebody else extorted money from Smythe under the pretense that "the President's daughters" wanted it. This undoubtedly was the case if any money was paid out by Smythe. There is no direct evidence that he paid any to either Doolittle or Patterson. He had an arrangement by which he was to have taken care of these persons, but it seems to have fallen through. Hulburd used this testimony simply to show that Smythe was ready for any wickedness.

It is rumored that the President will stand by Smythe, believing him innocent. If he does the House may impeach him and probably will do so, and then the Senate will have to try him, and if guilty he will be removed. The chief difficulty is the fact that the Senate has no time for such work.

Before closing I must give you two or three choice things from Hulburd's speech on Smythe.

Mr Smythe has once a month since he has been installed in his present position, taken an oath that he never received anything, directly or indirectly, from the general order business, from the cartage business, from the storage business etc. Sir, it is in proof that Mr Smythe, soon after coming into office, did increase an account rendered to him by a South Shore of the cartage business, which amounted to $2.0 per month. When it was called to Mr Smythe he said to his secretary I do not want to receive that money. You take it up for it and when I want it I will call for it. She did not have it technically paid, but his accounts showed very conscientiously to take his monthly cash and not at that time had not received, directly or indirectly, because he had it not entered in his bank account or placed in his pockets. Two months after Mr Smythe says to his secretary: "Have you any money in my hands for me?" "Yes sir. How much?" "Two hundred dollars." "Then give me a check for it." He gives him a check for it. Yet on that man swears on my motion and he swore before the committee he has never received a dollar from that source. Yet in his examination by the committee he did admit that monthly previous to March there did exist an account up to the present time in favor of somebody here.

More than that. On one occasion he made a most indecent statement to me. He was sworn by a gentleman with whom I would have as quickly as I would any living man. I am damned sorry I ever undertook to carry the President's daughters."

The prudently lost not appear to have ordered lost money. He [illegible] there never to be used. Mr Smythe and this witness met each other in my own room. Mr Smythe in my committee's presence repeated that he never said so, that he never had any occasion to say it, gave in the lie to his denial. The witness said to him directly: "I am [illegible] know Mr Smythe what you thought." I don't know what occasion you had to say it but I do know you used those very words.

"Am I that rich?" The Committee on Public Expenditures has been ordered by the House and announced by the Speaker and is expected to report before adjournment to the House for action. Smythe will have to quit business.

STLAMER DAY

Spirit of the Eastern Press

We give below a series of extracts from leading Eastern papers of late dates,—discussing political and other questions of interest which have transpired there since our last advices by mail. The New York Herald, speaking of the operations of the reconstruction act says:

We expect before next March to announce to the world the complete re-establishment of the Union on the new basis of universal liberty and civil equality, with the restoration of every rebel State to Congress. The President has manifested in his appointments of his five military commanders—Scofield, Sickle, Thomas, Ord, and Sheridan—his purpose to execute these laws of Congress faithfully, and from the Southern civil intelligence and good services of such of these officers we are satisfied that they will carry out these laws as quietly and kindly as possible to the people. The several States concerned, which, therefore, the ten excluded States shall or shall not have a voice in this Congress and in the election of the next, and the next President, will depend upon those acts of the ruling white class of each of the States directly concerned, and that class, to some extent distranchised in this work of reconstruction, we are gratified to believe, is rapidly coming around to the wise policy of a prompt and faithful compliance with the terms of Congress.

The prospect, therefore, of Southern restoration is good, and the encouraging indications we are daily receiving from Virginia and all the way through to Texas, warrant the belief of immense advantages to all these States in the way of Northern capital and enterprise in view of large crops, even this year, of corn, tobacco, cotton, rice and sugar. Cheerful submission to manifest destiny will surely bring to the South, in advance of Southern restoration, those great essentials of financial confidence in the development of Southern industry, wealth and prosperity.

On the subject of additional legislation, the Washington Chronicle says:

Our public is literally covered with letters from the Union men of the South thanking Congress for the Reconstruction Act and asking for additional legislation to prevent the rebels from controlling the initial organizations of the new State governments. The great vote by which the House passed Mr Wilson's supplemental bill, regulating the elections under that Act, will be gratefully welcomed by those long persecuted citizens. That bill will forever destroy the anomaly of "allowing intelligible men to keep up invalid governments."

The New York Times thinks, with his friend A J., that the Constitution has been broken into little pieces of late especially by the passage of the Reconstruction law over the President's veto. The plea that the Constitution never contemplated such a state of things as now exists, is characterized as sheer nonsense.

The Constitution provides for every case that can arise and for every state of things that can exist. Its language is general, and its binding force is absolute and universal. The plea cited, means simply that

"The Spirit of Evil is Intensely Logical"

The son of the excellent Vicar of Wakefield, who was an observant person, who had traveled much and who had listened attentively to the subtle and perplexing disputations of the schools found that in every discussion the best things could be said on the wrong side Therefore he concluded that the only great truths worthy of the name were to be found in paradoxes. The real triumph of logic consisted in dressing paradoxes up in such a manner as would enforce conviction and astonish the world. This same idea that the best things always remain to be said on the wrong side, is alluded to in a graver manner by our historian Bancroft, who, remarking upon the invariable habit which error has of fortifying its positions by the subtilities of argumentation, observes that "the spirit of evil is always intensely logical" The character of Belial, as drawn by Milton, is a type of those persons who propagate evils by turning logic to its baser uses This wicked personage is disarmed as one whose "tongue dropped manna," and who could make "the worse appear the better reason," with such effect as to "perplex and dash maturest counsels" These observations afford a view of the cause of our national difficulties The "spirit of evil" with its 'logical subtleties, inferences and conclusions, has been at work in our country ever since the propagation of those false theories of Government which effected the political revolution of 1800, began

Political doctrines were put forth at that time which are utterly incompatible with the existence of a Government like ours, because those doctrines, when carried to their logical conclusion, must always produce results like those witnessed in 1860-'61, when one third of the States broke away from their orbits and assumed to create a government of their own. It was declared in 1799 that whenever any State should deem itself injured by the National Government, such State had an indisputable right to judge, both of the extent of the wrong and of the mode and measure of redress This dogma was accepted as a truth by a large party, nor has it yet been renounced After it became one of the cardinal doctrines of that party, the rules of logic were applied to it, and it was found that the right of a State "to judge of the mode and measure of redress" gave it the right to obtain that redress by withdrawing from the Union. The same reasoning forbade the National Government to employ force to prevent or defeat secession. The proceeding was "intensely logical" throughout. The Southern section of the party was so powerfully convinced by this logic that it did not hesitate to consummate the act of secession and point triumphantly to "Democratic" principles for its justification, while the Northern section of the party, equally imbued with this doctrine, and equally convinced by this logic, made the Government officially declare that it had no right to make resistance to disintegration, and that there was no way by which the disruption of the Union could be prevented. Hence South Carolina and Louisiana proceeded to "resume their delegated powers," and President Buchanan and Attorney General Black proceeded to declare that there were no constitutional means to prevent them! Logic had completely stranded the Government And so "intensely logical was this spirit of evil," that it insisted that the Union must perish rather than that the logic of this party should be overturned. But the people, ignoring the logic on which the Government had stranded, went to work in their own way and saved the Union.

Another example of the consequences of this this sort of logic is found in the action of the same party in relation to slavery. When the Constitution was formed, slavery was regarded as an unmixed evil, and the first men of that time, both North and South, denounced it as a curse. But the cotton gin was invented, and slave-labor and slave-breeding became profitable Then it was for the first time discovered that slavery was a humanizing, Christianizing institution, and logic stepping in declared it the normal condition of the negro! It even went farther, and declared that the holding of the negro in bondage was the true way to secure the elevation and advancement of the white race! These principles were heralded forth as forming the true basis of society Logic had led unerringly to this conclusion The great idea was fixed, irresistible, eternal. The Southern Confederacy had a mission among the nations. It had devolved on her to give the world a lesson in the great "social, moral and philosophical truth" on which all society should rest. The result of this pretentious effort is before the world. "Intensely logical" as it was, it could not succeed. It is pretty clear by this time that the "spirit of evil with all its logical subtleties, is not able to bind the spirit of liberty, or to reverse the laws and conditions of eternal justice

That logic of the old sophists, which Milton makes Belial also excel in—the logic which is able to make "the worse appear the better reason,"—has wrought infinite harm in our politics To it are ascribable most of the difficulties the country has had to encounter. The Democratic party was founded on the idea of State supremacy, and from this starting point it was driven by the force of logic to secession in the South, and to denial in the North of the right to resist secession Every Democrat who could pick up a few fragments and scraps of argument, turned "logician," and the mass of the party was impelled to the position it occupied at the close of the term of Buchanan As it has not yet renounced it may yet well be regarded with distrust. The country has had about enough of the sort of logic that produced the crisis of 1860-61

A Race for the Negro Vote

The New York World, that eminent organ of Democracy, continues, (to quote its own phrase) to "court the negro vote." In this congenial work it leaves all competitors behind Eclipse is first, the rest nowhere. It lately devoted an entire page to a report of the condition of the colored population of New York, in which occurred many passages praising the negroes for their great industry and good behavior! Take the following as a specimen

As a race the negroes of New York considered from a police point of view, are a better class of citizens than the lower grades of whites As just remarked, a negro or negress is brought before the courts occasionally for theft; occasionally a black man is arraigned for outrage and very rarely for drunkenness or murder But, as a class, the negroes give the police comparatively little trouble This is the almost universal testimony alike of patrolmen, sergeants captains and superintendents; and we publish it as at least an approximation to the truth

This from the leading Democratic paper of the United States! A confession from the principal organ of that party that "negroes are better than the lower grades of whites!" This from a Republican paper would be branded as atrocious What have Democrats to say to it when it comes from their own leading journal? But here is more of it. The World makes the following declaration in relation to a matter about which many of its party friends profess to be very fastidious?

As regards the popular notion of the odor of the negro, it may be positively stated that he, in this respect, is like the white—a clean negro being free from it and a foul one cursed by it.

So the odor of the negro is no longer offensive to Democratic nostrils! The world moves Or, to speak more directly to the point, men's tastes change The negro is going to have the ballot therefore his "sweat" which has been the point of so much vulgar Democratic wit, will henceforth be inodorous. It may even become a sweet savor in the nostrils of Democrats. The World rejoices that the "Black Democrats" are quite numerous in New York city, and declares its belief that with proper management "the number can be indefinitely increased." How do Democrats like the prospect? Negro suffrage is not quite so terrible an idea after all,—now is it?

A New York Republican paper, in view of the new position the Democratic party has taken, says "Alas for the Democratic seers! Instead of "a war of races," bloody and horrible, we are to have only a race of the Democratic party after the negro vote!"

SAN FRANCISCO ASSAYING AND REFINING WORKS,

CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000!

Directors:

JOHN PARROTT, CHAS B McLANE,
WM. O HALSTON, A HAYWARD,
LOUIS A. CARNETT.

LOUIS A CARNETT President and Manager
JOHN HEWSTON Jr. Chemist and Superintendent

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit, to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the mining and commercial value of bullion

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent. (here before a quarter) for all amounts over $1,000, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one-eighth of one per cent, for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent on the silver contained Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold 2 cents per ounce.

On bullion from 300 ⅝@600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce

On bullion from 600 ⅝@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.

On bullion from 750 ⅝@940½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce

Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent —and which is paid by us to that institution But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY EIGHT HOURS

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express

CHARGES AT U S BRANCH MINT

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution

For refining bullion under 899 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce

For refining bullion from 900 ⅝@900 parts gold 5 cents per ounce

For refining bullion from 900 ⅝@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce

For refining bullion from 750 ⅝@630 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 630 ⅝@949½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent, and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have only ¼ of one per cent—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage

660 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents

846 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents

865 par to equal San Francisco Assay Works return at refining charge of 8 cents mh1d2m3m

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF DELEGATES.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Delegates of the Fire Department met on Saturday evening, April 27th, when the following proceedings were had: The President being absent, the Board was called to order by the Clerk, and on motion, Chief Engineer Coulson was chosen President pro tem. There were present Messrs. Monnastes, Bothwell, Norden, Myers, Holt, Hodgkinson, Ferry, Fishel, Lyon, White, Miller, Coulson, Hodgkinson, Ferry, Fishel, Lyon, White, Webber, and Thresher; absent, Messrs. Boyd, Carson, and Fisher. The minutes of the previous meeting were read.

AMENDMENT OF THE RECORD.

Mr. Norden moved that the record, so far as it relates to certain charges preferred against Wm O. Bruen, foreman of Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, be amended so as to set forth the charges.

Mr. Hodgkinson called for the reading of the record so far as it relates to such charges.

Mr. Bothwell said that he thought it not necessary for the record to show the charges until after the trial.

Mr. Hodgkinson agreed with Mr. Bothwell, thought it not material that the record should be encumbered with the charges, until the case should be disposed of.

Mr. Norden withdrew his motion to amend.

EXEMPT CERTIFICATES.

The Committee on Exempt Certificates, to whom was referred the application of Messrs. B. Stewart, J. Thompson, D. Fleg-Aly, Joseph Bachman, M S Burrell, A. J. Remington, Geo. T. Meyers, F. Barbaugh, and J. J. Wright for exempt certificates, reported that they had served as active firemen in the Department the length of time required by law to entitle them to the same (in the matter, the Secretary was directed to issue certificates to each of the respective named persons.

A communication from Multnomah Co No 2, was read, setting forth that Henry Rosenfeli has served as an active fireman a sufficient length of time to entitle him to an exempt certificate, and recommending that a certificate be issued to him.

On motion, the recommendation was adopted.

THE TRIAL OF WM O BRUEN.

A communication was received and read, from Wm. O. Bruen, in reply to the charges preferred against him by Joe Fishel—disorderly conduct and using profane language and alarm of fire on the 16th day of March last.

Mr. Millard moved to adjourn, which was negatived.

On motion of Mr. Webber, the Board proceeded with the trial of Mr. Bruen.

The charges were, substantially, that on the occasion of the fire alarm, referred to above, Mr. Bruen refused to serve his engine, which was placed no near to the engine of No. 2, on the cistern at the junction of First and Ash streets, and refused to prevent both engines from working, and used profane language, unbecoming an officer and member of the Fire Department.

Mr. Norden was appointed counsel on the part of the Fire Department.

Mr. Hodgkinson appeared for the defence.

Witnesses were sworn and examined, when the case with their respective arguments was submitted to the Board, under the charge and instructions of the President pro tem. A ballot being taken, there were two votes for finding "guilty" and ten votes for finding "not guilty," so the accused was discharged.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

Fossil.—Mr. James Cook, of this city, has a petrified turtle which came from near the Cascades and which he has presented to the Smithsonian Institute. A few days since he received a reply, a part of which we quote for the information of those who have fossil or other specimens to send: "We shall be much pleased to receive the specimen, as even, if not a fossil turtle, it may be of equally interesting. If, therefore, you will box it carefully and forward to the care of Samuel H. Reed, office of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co., San Francisco he will pay freight from Portland and send to us free of further expense. It will always give us pleasure to receive similar specimens of minerals and fossils from Oregon, petrified trees or stones, skulls of deer, bears, seals or other quadrupeds, fresh water, land and marine shells; in fact, anything illustrating the natural history of the west coast."

A SCREAMER.—About 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, a couple of men were passing the M. E. Church, when their attention was attracted by a man lying on the steps of the church, asleep and nude with the exception of his native garment. One of the men stepped up to him and gave him a gentle shake, when the man started up making "what's the matter!" To this the man replied "what's the matter with you?" The awakened sleeper looked wildly around for a moment, till finally realizing the situation, he sprang up and ran like a fellow-citizen up Taylor street and disappeared. The two who found him were satisfied that the sleeper was not sober, and that he had come out during a fit of delirium.

RATES OF FREIGHT TO CAS MINES.—A correspondent at Dayton mentions the following as the rates for transporting merchandise from that point to the mines, by mule trains: To Lambi, 10@20c. per pound; to Holmes, Montana Territory, 10@18c.; to Idaho City, 8½@20c.; to Placerville, Centreville and Pioneer City, 8½@20c; to Owyhee City, 8½@30c. These prices are payable in gold dust at $18 per ounce, or if paid in bars or coin, the rates are proportionately less. Teams are not yet running, owing to the bad state of the roads. About the 15th of May the roads will be better and then a large number of teams are expected to offer, when the rates will probably be considerably reduced.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Idaho sailed Saturday evening for San Francisco with the following list of passengers: C. N. Thomas, D. W. Crane Wm. Graves, C B Elbe, T H Cox, H Garthwaite, Rufus Reed, Miss Ellen Grant, M L Hillman, W J Taylor, J Wood, A D Metzger, Mrs S H Cox, L C Wicks, J H Parker, F L Soule, wife and child, Lee A B Earle and wife, Mrs C B Dowling, H J Scarfield, James R Robbins, Mrs Thomas Metzger, Mrs S Cox, M Connor, T R Brooke, T Cook, [illegible] Parker, A B Kern (Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express) and 24 in the steerage.

A FIRE BOY ARRESTED.—Marshal Hooker, of the Dalles, has arrested Geo. Silke-Smith, who raised a considerable sum of money last week at Vancouver by fraudulent representations—borrowing on behalf of other parties. The Mail-Register says, "Silke went pretty fast as long as his funds lasted; bought a fine silver watch of a jeweler and invested to quite an extent in a clothing store, and cut in short, quite a splurge for one so young. When arrested he had only three dollars and a half left out of the 'stake' he raised at Vancouver."

REMOVAL.—J. Quinn Thornton has the following advertisement in the Portland Advocate: "I have for sale, at my farm in Benton county, fourteen horses, one hundred fine wooled sheep, two bulls, and twenty-seven first-rate cows, all gentle and good milkers." It strikes us that if the advertisement means what it says, Mr. Thornton has the most remarkable lot of horses and bulls, at least, in this country.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Idaho took the following freight on Saturday, for San Francisco: 10,283 sacks flour, 1,600 boxes apples, 136 cases lard, 22 kegs do, 31 bbls dried apples, 166 gunnies bacon, 61 cases do, 3000 lbs do, 1 bbl whiskey, 453 doz. straw, 60 tierces half-barrels, 119 bales, 14 bales wool, 60 sks potatoes, 60 boxes cigars, 20 kegs butter, 20 empty ale barrels, 6 cases furs, 1 bale skins, 13 cases mdse, 30 bbl bbls pork.

THE COURT.—On Saturday Henry Frioss was tried on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and being found guilty was sent up for two days.

The following cases will be up this morning, the parties having been arrested: Indian Tom and Indian Jack, for being disorderly and fighting; George Flowers, drunk and disorderly; John Doe, drunk and lying on the sidewalk.

REAL ESTATE.—Mr. A. B. Richardson will shortly sell at auction for the administratrix, a part of the real estate of W. H Frush, deceased, situate adjoining East Portland. The parcels to be offered contain each 60, 70, 120, 160 and 320 acres each. The sale will take place at the Auction Room, floor. A map of the property may be seen at the County Clerk's office or at Mr. Richardson's room.

Reed has been awarded the contract for carrying the mails on the new route, No. 16,128, from Portland via Union school house, Hillsboro, Fosters and Cuttingsville, to Silverton, Marion county. The mail leaves here on Monday and is to go through and back in four days. The contractor is to receive $1,800 per annum.

IRISH WIDOWS.—The Irish Aid Society of Portland has received by the steamer of Saturday, to Anthony A. Gibbs, U. A. B. D., New York, two drafts—one for $100 on Asboy and the other for $765.60, for the Irish Relief Fund. The money was subscribed in this city within the last five or six weeks.

OREGON CITY MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—The stockholders in the Oregon City Woolen Manufacturing Company held their annual meeting on Saturday, at 10 A M, for the election of directors, and the following gentlemen were chosen: R. Jacobs, L. D. C. Lafayette, T. White, L. Brown and W. C. Johnson. At a meeting of the above named directors, in the afternoon, Mr R. Jacobs was re-elected President of the Board and Managing agent, W. C. Johnson, Vice President, J. Winston, Secretary, and L. D. C. Lafayette, Treasurer. The company has recently added largely to the machinery of the mills from the most celebrated looms of the East, and is now manufacturing more goods and a greater variety, than ever before. While at Oregon City on Saturday we were shown the stock of goods on hand and we were satisfied that no better or handsomer goods are manufactured in this State or in the United States. Several sorts of cassimers shown us, are entirely new to this coast, and are the result of ingenious and patient taking experiment by Mr. Wortley, the Superintendent, and his principal operatives. A dark steel-mixed cassimere, which so closely imitates double-twist that only those of experience would be able to detect the difference, is the result of one of these experiments. It is made by running through the carders, the different colored wools at the same time, an operation which only the most skillful workmen can perform successfully. In this case, the evidence of skill is incontestible. The new machinery, all of the latest improved patterns, enables the company to turn out now, fabrics of a quality very superior to anything heretofore manufactured on this coast, and which would not suffer by comparison with the same style of goods manufactured anywhere, either as to texture, strength or beauty. The company makes use of only the best grades of wool, and every bolt turned out may be relied on, therefore, as being truly all that it appears to be. No shoddy material goes into the mill and no shoddy goods come out of it.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We clip the following from the Enterprise of the 27th: Service has been held every evening this week at the M. E Church, and several have been converted to Christianity.....Messrs. Owen Wade, Register, and Henry Warren, Receiver, at the Land Office in this city, are now "Andy" proof, having received notice of their reappointment and confirmation by the Senate of the United States.....The Register and Receiver at this place have received from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, a list of lands selected by the State of Oregon under the act of 1841, granting 500,000 acres to each new State, said list being approved by the Secretary of the Interior, embracing 110,584 acres, lying mainly in Union and Baker counties.... At length the Oregon City Water-Works Company is a fact. At a meeting of the City Council on Saturday evening last, a final accomplishment was effected, and the city entered into an agreement with Messrs. Jerome, Pease, and others, to furnish water to street hydrants at the corners. The works will be erected the present season.....We have received too late for insertion this week, the annual report of the Finance Committee of the City Council. There is a surplus in the treasury of $,2420 25 to the school fund. The debt of the city at the present time is $9,000 G. The indebtedness at the commencement of the fiscal year was $2,704 38. Showing a considerable reduction. The debt would have been reduced much more and it not been for extraordinary expenses, incurred in the collection of city taxes

JUST RECEIVED PER IDAHO.—A large assortment of Hats were received at Meussdorffer Bros. by the Idaho, among which are the Diamond Hat and the St. Cloud Hat, in drab and black colors. They are entirely new in design and suitable for young gents. They also received a fine assortment of Infants' Straw Hats, which they offer at very low rates

ANOTHER RACE TO-DAY.—The great race of the season will come off to-day—the great human race—for a splendid suit of clothing, to be had at Berman Bros. for less money according to quality than at any house in this city. The race will begin at 9 o'clock.

LOST.—On the 28th inst., between the What Cheer House and the Catholic Church, a lady's belt, with gold buckle. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving the same at the What Cheer House.

MONTANA ITEMS.—The Post contains a call for a meeting to devise measures to protect that part of the Territory from Indian invasion.

Meagher issues another proclamation commanding obedience to the laws of the first, second, third and fourth sessions of the legislature, because there is no official notification that they are annulled by Congress.

The rush to the Lambi mines continues.

It is reported that upwards of forty paying gulches have been discovered in the mines at Lambi.

FROM IDAHO.

We have the following from the Boise Statesman of the 20th

DECIDED

We understand that Assessor Hines, after consulting with the county commissioners and the district attorney has determined notwithstanding the act of the legislature, to assess property at a fifteenback valuation and to receive them for all kinds of taxes This is undoubtedly the wisest course to pursue, as it avoids the possibility of litigation and delay in the collection of revenue The same course will we understand be pursued by Alturas Oneida and Owyhee counties.

FROM ROCKY BAR.

Mr A M Quivey just down from Rocky Bar, informs us that the snow is still four feet deep in camp, and thinks it will be the first of June before teams can get in The people at the Bar are intensely hostile at the action of the late legislature in extending the Newburg franchise The Idaho mill continues pounding away, but with what results is not known They are certainly mining some very rich rock rich in both gold and silver They are taking out the gold without attempting to save the silver, and throw away their tailings The company appear to be in funds and pay their bills promptly.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

The contracts for furnishing Fort Boise 150 tons hay, 100,000 pounds grain, and 100 cords wood, were opened at the quartermaster's office on Wednesday, and all awarded to Thomas Denham. The hay $30 per ton, oats and barley at 5½ cents, and wood at $9 per cord A list of the bids exhibits some facts that are curious to the uninstructed. For instance, the bids to furnish wood ranged from $9 to $13 per cord, and there were three bogus bids For grain the highest was 6½ cents, and lowest 4 and a fraction, and four bogus bids The highest bid for hay was $50, lowest $30 There was an effort made to withdraw the wood bid on the ground of inability to fulfil the contract, but Capt McGregor was of the opinion that responsible for one contract he was responsible for all, and Wm Denham was obliged to stand by all his bids. Served him right We think it is time that bogus bidding and "shenanigan" were stopped in the letting of army contracts It has been the practice heretofore for parties to put in a number of "straw" bids over fictitious signatures, and also procure bids to be made with the purpose to have them withdrawn if there should be another bid lower than and their price set higher. We know that this and other like practices have disgusted many good responsible citizens of Boise City who would be pleased to bid at figures which would leave them a reasonable profit, but experience proves that they don't stand much of a show unless they happen to be "on the inside" With a view to rectify matters somewhat Capt McGregor intends in future to require security from each bidder that he will perform the conditions of his bid awarded to him, and to disregard all bids not secured

FROM PEN D' OREILLE LAKE.

H. A. Hogue writes as follows from Pen d' Oreille Lake to the Mountaineer. The letter is dated the 15th instant:

Travelers and trains are arriving on the Spokane Prairie every day, and at this time I have engaged for transportation by steamer Mary Moody, from this place to Cabinet Landing, a distance of fifty miles, 500 pack animals. The travel has fairly started; the trail above is broke, and trains are rushing through; we have carried over the lake fifty travelers and their horses; two pack trains, one of forty and the other forty-eight animals We are now making a trip and a half a day—running one hundred and fifty miles and carrying one hundred animals and their cargoes. The spring has been so late that there is a large crowd of trains laying on Spokane, and in the next two weeks (if no accident) we will carry 1,000 to 1,200 animals with their cargoes to Cabinet Landing, after which we can take them up as fast as they come in. Faith in the new diggings on Thompson's or Vermillion river, still holds out I expect soon to have reliable news from them, upon receipt of which, I will advise you.

Western Antiquities.

THE MOUNDS—MURAL REMAINS—RELICS OF THE STONE AGE—FICTILIA—IMPORTANCE OF CONCRETED ACTION—EXPLORATION, ETC., ETC.

[Special Correspondence of the St Louis "Press"]

OHIO RIVER, Feb. 20, 1867.

Nothing strikes the cultivated traveler along the great water courses of the West and South, and throughout the vast plains and valleys which everywhere his pathway traverses, than the number, variety and extent of the vast and mysterious monumental remains which on every hand loom up before him. To the hunter, pioneer and settler who first penetrated the illimitable wilderness beyond the mountains, these interesting memorials of a lost and forgotten people, were alike objects of mystery and wonder, as to-day they are to the more enlightened who hurriedly pass or pause to examine them. Who built these stupendous earthworks? when were they constructed? for what purpose designed? are questions which generations gone by have asked, but which generations to come will be unable to answer. They are popularly called "Indian mounds," and "fortifications," but the Indian knew nothing of their history or origin. Long before the intrusion of the "pale-faced" hunter, the simple minded savages who roamed these forests and claimed them as inalienably their own, stood before these venerable monuments, gazed and wondered and turned away. A profound mystery envelopes the antiquities of the West and South.

To-day we know little more of their origin, history and purposes than we did when Ponce de Leon sought here for that fountain of perpetual life which was to restore to his veteran limbs the vigor and freshness of youth. It is discreditable to our intelligence as a people that so little interest is shown on the subject of American antiquities. While the nations of Europe are vieing in efforts to develop the pre-historic times of their own, what are we doing? Literally nothing [illegible] observing, examining and describing memorials of the past, [illegible] in the way of desecration and [illegible] vandal and utilitarian spirit of the age is [illegible] completing the work of destruction. [illegible] these beautiful studies of the past [illegible] way of a road to be cut out, a house to be [illegible] or even a pig-stye, the pick and shovel are brought into requisition.

Marietta, which we passed a few hours since, was formerly the seat of extensive and most interesting earthworks, comprising mounds, circumvallations, elevated squares, parallel walks, etc. These constituted the real attractions of the place, and induced visitors far and near, Louis Philippe, at an early period in the present century, visited and sketched these attractive works. Nothing in America interested him more, and he frequently conversed about this visit with the late Gen. Cass during the residence of the latter at the court of St. Cloud.

The vandalism of the age is fast hurrying to destruction the last of these extensive and most remarkable remains. The Pin-Feathers as the pretentious New England settlers named the protecting walls which led from the inclosures to the river (Muskingum) a truly remarkable work, is fast changing its sacred character for the vulgar utilities of common life. The material which the mound builders piled up centuries and decades of centuries ago is rapidly being cemented into dull brick Could the destructive spirit of the age go further? Happily, the beautiful and symmetrical mound—chief of those formerly adorning the plain—is preserved in the town cemetery. The summit is gained by a series of stone steps. The mound is surrounded by a fosse. This tumulus has not been examined, the citizens declining to have it excavated. There are two angular constructions in good preservation. One of these was occupied as a military camp during the war. It was called Camp Tapper, in honor of one of the early settlers. The late Judge Nye deserves the thanks of the scientific world for his efforts to preserve this fine work from demolition. In the vicinity of Marietta are other interesting ancient works. As we pass down the Ohio the earthworks multiply in numbers and increase in size. These consist chiefly of tumuli, mural remains, etc. The former are circular, angular and ellipsoidal, conical and truncated, varying in height from one to ninety feet. The enclosures are circular, square and polygonal, with varying area from less than an acre to over one hundred and fifty acres. There are other mural acres, consisting of long lines, single or double, defensive works of great strength and extent, etc.

The contents of mounds form an interesting department of American archæology. They embrace an endless variety of implements, ornaments and weapons representing the Stone Age The Bronze Age, recognized by Danish archæologists, did not exist at the West, but there are remains of a Copper Age.

Some unusually fine specimens of the Stone Age have recently come into my possession. The subdivision made by Sir John Lubbock is well illustrated, viz: the paleolithic, or the unground Stone Age, and the neolithic, or polished Stone Age.

The fictilia forms an interesting feature in Western antiquities. The plastic art was extensively practised by the pre-historic people of the West. Some fine specimens have been preserved, but these fragile memorials of the buried past have suffered immensurably from the destructive spirit of the age. The art appears to have been in higher cultivation in the Central Ohio Valley and the Southwest than in the Upper Mississippi Valley. Some specimens which I have recently gathered from mounds in Illinois, near St. Louis, are a coarse breccia, in which I have detected small rhomboidal fragments of white crystalic carbonate of lime. Ordinarily, broken fresh water shells were used.

Cannot something be done to secure careful and systematic exploration of the ancient earthworks of the West and Southwest? It is a reflection on our intelligence that this important work has been neglected so long. Some of the most interesting and remarkable monumental remains of the past have been utterly effaced. Day by day the work of destruction is going on. How long shall this continue? Until some one of the enlightened Governments of Europe send over a commission to do the work of exploration? There is in Paris an association of savans, who have organized an American Antiquarian Society for the study of American archæology. Perhaps on this hint the most enlightened monarch of Europe may order an exploration commission. Let the aid come whence it may, I wish to have our antiquities thoroughly explored ere it be forever too late.

Meteorological Observations by Telegraph.

The electric telegraph is found of great importance in meteorological observations, in forewarning the approach of storms, and facilitating the marine reports from distant points.

It was known in Franklin's time, and, if we mistake not, first published to the world by that eminent philosopher, that northeast storms come from the southwest It was doubtless considered in his day a statement of doubtful veracity, and we can imagine many a wiseacre shaking his head and exclaiming, "I don t believe it!" And yet, at the present day, where can a schoolboy be found who does not know that they are shivering with a northeaster in New York several hours before Bostonians see any indications of foul weather

Thanks to the promulgation of Espy's theory of storms, the whole matter is not as well understood in this country as in Europe.

Among those who applied this knowledge to practical account in this country, we must place in the front ranks Joseph Brooks, the manager of a line of steamers that ply between Boston and Portland. In 1850, Mr Brooks requested us to employ an agent for him in New York to make daily observations of the state of the wind and weather, and send them to him over the wires every day at 3 o'clock. If the weather looked bad in the morning he was to send a dispatch at 8 o'clock, if a a storm came up, to send another at noon, and then at 3 o'clock, to give a full statement of its condition, and nearly as possible of its prospects

With data like these, Mr Brooks could at once tell at what hour the storm would reach New Haven, Springfield, Boston and all points between Boston and Portland. He could tell with absolute certainty whether it would be prudent to send his boat to Portland, or whether it would be safe for the Portland boat to come to Boston If the storm had been raging with some severity for some hours in New York, he knew it would not be safe for the Portland boat to come out, as she would be sure to encounter it before arriving here, but the case with Boston might be different, for she could reach Portland before the storm could overtake her.

Storms of ordinary velocity will travel about 25 miles an hour, but some will sweep along at more than twice this rate of speed, and will cover a space of nearly a thousand miles in length by several hundreds in breadth.

When the importance of the matter becomes fully understood, the state of the weather will be telegraphed to every important town on the sea board as regularly as the stocks and markets are at present, and the approach of every large storm will be announced upon our coast by storm signals, put up at Government expense. If our Government had the wisdom and liberality of the French and English Governments this matter would long ago have been looked after, and it would have established storm signal stations along the whole coast of Cape Cod, as well as upon other desirable points.

Were such a system in operation, it is impossible to tell the amount of property which might be saved every year. Vessels might have ample time to make safe harbor, pass on their way and are lost.

To show the importance of the matter in Mr. Brooks's case, who has made daily use of the wire for the past nine years, and it is enough to say that his steamers have avoided all storms, and his line is the safest and most reliable in the country. So highly does he esteem it, he assures us he would rather pay the cost of telegraphing for a whole year than have one of his boats exposed to a storm, even if she sustained no particular damage.

TROUBLES OF A FIRST SETTLER.—Few people are aware of the hardships and privations to which the first settlers in a new country are subjected, and more particularly in a country like this, where large numbers of people are drawn together in a hopeless struggle to acquire a sudden competency, which is one of the peculiar characteristics of a gold producing region. How many they are amongst us to-day who have, or do now, experience the bitter pangs of want, who know not where the next meal is to come from for himself, his wife, and little ones, such as is depicted in the following sketch of the trials of an early settler in Nevada State, which we take from the Virginia Enterprise:

"When I landed in this town I had just $28; got a house for my wife and family and began looking for work; found none, and in about a week all my money was gone. My wife said we had better spend the little money we had left in bread, butter, cheese, crackers and such things, as we could eat, without cooking, and so save fuel. We did so, got down my last fifty-cent piece; went to a provision store where I had been dealing and asked for a pound of butter; the price was fifty-five cents; threw down my four bits; told the merchant it was the last cent I had, but I would make it right as soon as I got work; he wouldn't trust me, but took a knife and cut five cents' worth off the roll. A a day or two we were still worse off—hadn't a cent of money and nothing to eat; had no supper and no breakfast; it got to be 11 o'clock, and we were all very hungry; went to the man I had been dealing with; told him how we were situated, and asked him to credit me for a pound of cheese and a pound of crackers; he said he didn't do that kind of business and wouldn't commence with me; I turned away with tears in my eyes; I walked the streets, not knowing what to do; at last, while standing on the corner of B and Union streets, where Prescott's bookstore now is, I heard two men coming out of the building behind me, conversing in the French language; I said to myself, 'I can't starve nor let my family starve—I must ask assistance of these men.' I stepped them and told them exactly how I was situated. One of them looked at me closely and said: 'Your name is ——, and I went to school with you at ——.' I told him that he certainly had mentioned my name, and that I was once at school at ——. He told me his name, when I remembered him as an old school fellow. Butter still, he handed me $50, and told me to call on him for more when that was gone. I did call, and in all he let me have $135 before I got work. At last I got a chance to work in a mine. I had never been in a mine, and when I got on the cage I was terribly frightened. The first ten feet the cage went down, it seemed to have dropped, and I felt as though I was cut in two—one half of me to the cage and the other half not yet started down, however, I grasped the cage bar tightly, shut my eyes and said, here goes for bread and my family.' I was soon able to repay my old school-fellow, but never yet felt that I was even with the man who refused me a pound of crackers when I was starving." There are many others, perhaps, who landed here "strangers in a strange land," who could doubtless tell similar stories.

NITRO-GLYCERINE AND POWDER.—The North Californian has a correspondent at Smartsville who thus compares these two blasting substances:

To understand the nature of the rock being worked, I will state that it requires three men at a drill, cutting a hole one a quarter by twenty inches deep, two hours to drill the bore hole, and it is necessary to have a cavity of that size to contain sufficient powder to do the work of throwing out the rock, and again where you blast with powder in a hole of twenty inches in depth, there is almost certain to be three inches of the hole left without any execution, thus leaving about fourteen per cent. of three men's labor for each hole thrown away. The tests with glycerine (and Mr. Crary has given it close attention with its constant use for two months past) has proven that a drill making a hole of one inch, and twenty in depth, can be put down with the same force in one and a half hours, there being a surface of one-quarter of an inch less to cut, thus saving twenty-five per cent in the cost of the bore hole, then with the use of the oil being so simple, merely pouring in sand upon the cartridge, is another great saving of time, making a saving of at least thirty-five per cent. in favor of glycerine over the use of powder in the works The great fright of danger in using the oil is all borrowed. The men use and handle it like water. When we recollect that a large per cent. of the accidents from blasting occurs from tamping, the reader will observe that it is not necessary to use the tamping bar with the oil, thus that danger is avoided. Another cause of accidents from the use of powder in blasting, is the drawing of a charge that has missed fire. With the use of the oil, in the case of a misfire, you have only to take out a portion of the loose tamping sand, then insert a second charge of oil, and the concussion of that explodes both, thus two of the principal causes of accidents from the use of powder are avoided in the use of the new agent. One pound of the oil is equal to eight of powder. There are about 6,000 kegs of powder used in this vicinity each year, and as the oil can be made here for a reasonable price, there is no doubt that it will entirely supersede the use of powder.

It is stated as a fact that where oak forests have existed ever since the first settlement of the country, if the trees are cut down there at once spring up on the spot pine saplings, covering all the ground If in turn the pine trees are cut down, oak trees in turn succeed them.

It is a curious fact in medical history, that during the prevalence of cholera in Moscow different plans of treatment were tried in the various large hospitals, but in one hospital it was agreed to employ no treatment whatever. The per centage of mortality was exactly the same in all the hospitals, including that in which no medicine was given

THE WORD "MONEY"—Prof. Whitney, of Yale College, in the last New Englander, thus gives the history of the word "money"

It is of French origin, brought into England by the Normans of William the Conqueror. The French language derives it from the Latin, where it has the form moneta, and signifies primarily the mint, the place where money was coined, and then, by transference, the coin stamp, mint mark, and the coin stamped or minted But why does moneta mean "mint" in Latin? For this reason The Romans thought they had to be grateful to their goddess Juno for certain monitions which she had given them in the crisis of their history, and they accordingly built a temple to Juno Moneta, Juno the Monisher. In the said temple it chanced that, for reasons of State convenience, of which no one is now cognizant, the Roman machinery for stamping money was set up, it was made their place of coinage, their mint Hence the names for mint, and coin and money in most of the tongues of modern Europe, they go back to a bit of popular superstition, and to the accidental location of a machine for stamping in a community which was at the time one of the most insignificant in Europe.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GREEN TEA.—In some parts of Germany they gather the strawberry leaf, and also the flowers when young, and after selecting and cleaning them, (without the use of water,) they are dried in the air in a shady place, out of reach of the sun. To these leaves the Germans give the appearance of Chinese tea, by first pinching their stalks off, waving them over the fire, and rolling them up when in a flexible state, and drying them. In this state the substitute for tea is ready for use; and being prepared exactly in the same manner, the difference, it is said, can hardly be distinguished.
